"Majority-Minority" Metros on the Rise

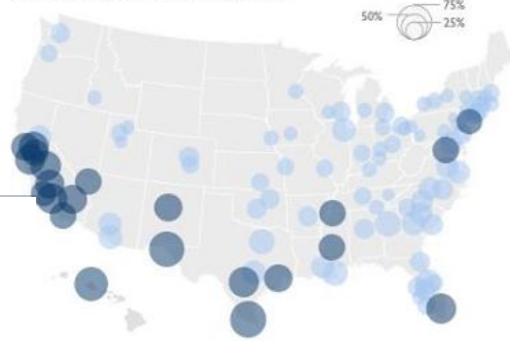

Between 1990 and 2010, the combined white share of the population in the 100 largest metro areas declined from 71 to 57 percent. In 2010, minorities (non-whites and Hispanics) comprised more than half the population in 22 of the 100 largest metro areas, up from 14 in 2000 and just five in 1990.

Donkey Nanny, Lombardy, Italy.

In the early spring shepherds drive huge flocks of livestock, here sheep, mules, donkeys, and goats from the Pre-Alpine hills to the plains of Lombardy, for grazing. The newborn lambs are carried in a custom made side saddle by the donkeys, and returned to their mothers at rest time.

Wendell Weland some connect the makara (door and rooftop Eastern dragon pattern) with the Leviathan of the OT (which in the Catholic tradition, like the Hindu religion is guardian of doors/gateways (in the Catholic tradition to hell) What I always notice is the Eastern yin/yang presentation of these motifs and the Western good/evil, moral connotation of light and darkness (while still sharing the mythical similarities).

"But with dollars growing increasingly hard to come by, this year's Oscar-season favorites are funded by particularly far-flung parties. They include the stepson of the Malaysian prime minister ("The Wolf of Wall Street"), a former NBA player ("Lee Daniels' The Butler"), an heir to a banking and Minnesota Twins fortune ("12 Years a Slave") and Newcomb's fertilizer money in "Dallas Buyers Club."

The largest nontraditional investor in an Oscar nominee is Red Granite Pictures, a young company founded by the previously unknown Kentucky native Joey McFarland and Riza Aziz, whose stepfather is Malaysian leader Najib Razak. Red Granite underwrote the entire $100-million budget for "Wolf," with Paramount coming in only as a distributor on the Martin Scorsese film."

There are many reasons investors enter the movie business. "Enticed by Charlie Sheen" isn't usually one of them.

China and Russia account for a huge percentage of the box office for Hollywood superhero movies, so an Asian or "Tatar" superhero would probably pull them in there as well.

Every non-partisan veterans group has declared President Obama an unwavering and ardent supporter of our Veterans and their well-being.

While one party sent them off to indefensible wars and left them out on the street when they returned to a deplorable economy, President Obama and the Democrats are ending and winding down the war(s), fixing the economy, and taking excellent care of our veterans.

VISUAL GUIDE TO MARVEL CHARACTER MOVIE RIGHTS

by The Geek Twins

In the 1990s, Marvel Comics began selling off the movie rights of its characters, so only certain studios could use them. When Marvel started getting its rights back, they created their own studio to launch a shared universe of films, but doesn't have them all back yet. This graphic shows which movie studio owns which Marvel characters in 2014.

A large majority of Americans — 83 percent — say the U.S. should make an effort to reduce global warming, even if those efforts have economic costs, according to a new report from the Yale Project on Climate Change Communication. As many as 56 percent of Americans would be willing to pay an extra $100 each year if their power company would generate 20 percent of its electricity from renewable sources.

Rosa Parks 1913-24/10/2005

Rosa Parks was a modest seamstress on her way home from work when she refused to give up her seat on a bus in Montgomery, Alabama. That single act of defiance on December 1st 1955 is remembered as the start of the civil rights movement and she is respectfully remembered as the mother of the civil rights movement

Huge Obelisk at Aswan Quarry, Egypt

How did they plan on cutting this obelisk free? The base is still attached to the rock floor. Obviously the obelisk was never finished, probably due to the huge cracks in it. The obelisk is made of granite, one of the hardest rocks on Earth...making it almost inconceivable how workers in the narrow trench were capable of carving the obelisk. How were they going to cut underneath it..
